“ I put the value of a long term association with a client over short term profit every time. ”

A leader in his field, Peter McLeod provides in-depth knowledge and experience as joint head of Property Services.

Peter has an extensive knowledge of property law built over many years acting for parties on all sides of a property transaction from receivers and managers to large construction companies and corporate investors and from individuals purchasing a home to lessors and tenants. Through this practical experience, Peter has the ability to determine the most cost effective course of action and advise on how to avoid issues which may arise during the course of a transaction.

He applies his practical understanding to complex property transactions for both Queensland and national clients including large shopping centre transactions, office building purchases, purchase and lease-back transactions, off-the-plan transactions, arranging for security in a variety of transactions, including construction and real property sales and leases, strata-titling of existing buildings, stamp duty minimisation and joint ventures.

Peter has contributed to various legal journals, providing information on amendments to legislation and updates on laws affecting property transactions. He joined MacGillivrays as a partner in 1998 giving the firm's clients access to more than 15 years of experience in property. Peter has also completed the Bar Practice Course.

Peter is a keen fisherman and enjoys swimming and surfing.
